Dear Maggie,

Hi there! We're here in China now and getting ready to explore a big cave. It's really dark, so we're bringing big flashlights. Our batteries are charged, but one of them is broken. We have to be careful not to lose the other ones! Our friend went to get a rope from his car. Once he arrives, we'll climb into the cave. We're going to study a small plant in the cave. It's very interesting because it does not need light to grow. You can find it in many different places here, but this cave has a big one. We hope to learn more about it. Do you remember Jennifer, the photographer from the science museum? She's traveling with us so she can take photos. I will e-mail one to you when I get back to the hotel.
