Task 6: Reading Comprehension Read the story. Then answer the questions. Circle the correct answers.

Bill's class took a field trip and visited a hospital. They talked to the people who work there. First, a nurse told the class how to close a wound that is bleeding. Next, a doctor showed them how to help people who are choking or can't breathe. Then, a paramedic named Simon talked about how he rides in an ambulance to accidents when they get emergency calls.

Bill's class spent a long time talking to Simon. Simon told the class about some of the emergency calls he has had. Often he and the other paramedics have helped people after their cars collided in intersections. He has also taken the ambulance to the homes of sick people who needed care. Simon said he would go to a factory if a worker gets a cut or falls down, but he hasn't had to do that yet. Simon explained that, as a paramedic, it's his job to treat people who need help and to get them to the hospital fast.

Bill learned a lot from their trip. Bill especially liked talking to Simon. He realized that he wants to be a paramedic, too, when he graduates from high school.
